Bu pencils were not popular then, and people continued to use bird feathers as pens. In 1795, someone started to make pencils with graphite and they became very popular.

Today people make pencils in the same way. They put graphite inside a piece of wood.

One pencil can write 50,000 English words or make a line 55 kilometers long. As for pens, people wrote with feather pens and then used ones with metal points. They had to dip the point into ink after every few letters. Next someone invented a fountain pen that could hold ink inside it. A fountain pen can write several pages before you have to fill it again. Two Hungarian brothers, Ladislao and George Biro, invented the ballpoint pen that we use today. They went to England to make numerous ballpoint pens in 1943. English pilots liked them. They couldn't use the fountain pens in airplanes because the ink leaked out.
